TO ARM SHIPS IS EXPECTED SOON

Lansing and Gregory Tell President He Has Authority to Take Such Action.

DECISION COMING SHORTLY

In View of Time Lost Which Would Be Required to Assemble New House, President Is Not Expected to Wait for Authorization of Congress.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 9.—Secretary Lansing and Attorney General Gregory have given President Wilson their opinion that he has legal authority to arm merchant ships without awaiting Congressional sanction, and the President's decision as to what he will do was expected today or tomorrow. The Senate's modification of its rules to guard against another filibuster on the armed neutrality bill led some officials to believe the President would call a special session of Congress soon to pass on the neutrality measure. In view of the long time which probably would be required to assemble and organize the new House, however, and the President's known desire for early action to get American shipping to moving again, it was anticipated in certain administration quarters that the President would direct the arming of ships by executive order.

RELEASE NEUTRALOF YARROWDALE CREW

LONDON, March 9.—The Americans and other neutrals on board the captured British steamer Yarrowdale, left Germany on Wednesday, a British dispatch today says. AMSTERDAM, March 9.—The German authorities, the telegraph says, have virtually stopped all industry in Belgium. DIRIGIBLE INVENTORDIES AT CHARLOTTENBURG

LONDON, March 9.—Count Zeppelin is dead, according to a dispatch from Berlin, received by Reuters' telegraph company. According to a Berlin telegram transmitted by Reuters' Amsterdam correspondent, Count Zeppelin died Thursday forenoon at Charlottenburg, near Berlin, from inflammation of the lungs.

(Count Ferdinand Zeppelin became famous at the age of 70 as the builder of the world's first practical dirigible balloon. On his 75th birthday he navigated his 20th airship to celebrate the occasion. But before he had achieved fame he had devoted a half century of his life, exhausted his personal fortune of $750,000, and sacrificed a brilliant career as a German cavalry leader, in conquering the air.)

Count Zeppelin recently proclaimed Count Zeppelin to be "the greatest German of the twentieth century." As a token of appreciation he conferred upon him the exalted Order of the Black Eagle, the highest honor in the Emperor's power.

It was in the United States that Count Zeppelin made his first balloon ascension. It occurred while he was following General Carl Schurz in the Civil War as a military observer for the German army. A captive balloon in use for military observations by union troops greatly interested the young German officer, and he was taken up in it in 1862.

LONDON, March 9.—Count von Zeppelin was suffering from dysentery for some time prior to his death and a complication of the malady necessitated an intestinal operation, according to a Berlin dispatch today.

The operation was successful and his recovery was expected when rumors developed and later inflammation of the lungs. The critical point in his illness was reached a few days ago and he died Thursday noon.

FRENCH ON OFFENSIVEIN CHAMPAIGN REGION

Intensive fighting in the Champagne region resulting favorably to the French, and the failure of a French attack at Hill 301, northwest of Verdun, are reported in today's official statement. The Champagne attack, Paris declares, was brilliantly successful. It was aimed to reduce the salient near Malson-de-Champagne, created by successful German attack in February. It resulted, says the Paris report, in the destruction of German positions on a front of more than 15,000 yards and approximately from 600 to 800 yards in depth.

Berlin announces the penetration of German trenches in this attack but as-

SHERIFF AND DEPUTY SWOOP DOWN ON CONNELLVILLE TO GET JURORS IN MURDER CASE

After this Connellsville men will read the court news more carefully and when there are murder trials it is safe to say the streets and clubhouses will be deserted, at least while a jury is being secured. Last night Sheriff T. L. Howard and Deputy Sheriff Matt Murphy swooped down on Connellsville to summon a special venire of 50 talesmen from whom to get a jury to try August Gates for the murder of Andy Namat.

The two sheriffs got off on the West Side and every man they met from Eighth street to the Elks Club was subpoenaed and told to report at 9 o'clock Friday morning. They were no respecters of persons. Those approached were told to come and that was all there was to it. Groups of men standing talking about the streets were all summoned and the pair finally wound up at the Elks, where a little social session was in progress and subpoenaed all of those present.

The funniest part of the incident to those who weren't caught is that when Gates was arraigned this morning he gazed about the court room, taking in the juryman with his glance, and then entered a plea of "guilty."

Those drawn were: Noah Anderson, Homer G. Baker, C. F. Bishop, Charles H. Bishop, C. H. Baskley, Paul Craft, John D. Coyne, C. R. Chamberlain, Andrew Clark, John F. NEW TREATMENT
HAS GOOD EFFECT

Blechluride Apparently Conquered By "11-Day" Method at Mount Pleasant Hospital.

After undergoing a new "11-day treatment" for bichloride poisoning, Earl Milliron was discharged yesterday from the Mount Pleasant Hospital. Monday he will return to the hospital for a thorough examination, and if he passes, he will be discharged from the hospital as cured. Milliron attempted suicide at a boarding house in South Connellsville by taking bichloride tablets. He was admitted to the hospital Monday morning, February 25, and following a diagnosis of the case, all symptoms of bichloride poisoning were found. As the poisoning is very slow in taking effect whether or not Milliron's condition was serious could not be determined. However he was put through a new treatment for bichloride poisoning, the nature of which is not disclosed by the hospital authorities, and apparently has recovered from the effects.

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 9.—Captain Alfred Fritzen, said to be a German naval officer, was arrested at Hardwood near here last night by a special agent of the Department of Justice and held in the city jail on suspicion of felony. The authorities said he was wanted in connection with the alleged plot to destroy the Welland canal.

Claim That U. S. Station in Fonseca Gulf Would Be Menace Ephed.

By Associated Press.

SAN SALVADOR, March 9.—The declaration recently made by Central American court adjutant, upholding for the second time the claim of Salvador in the Nicaragua canal treaty dispute, says that the naval base which the United States is to establish in the Gulf of Fonseca would constitute a menace.

The court rules that this provision of the treaty between Nicaragua and the United States is in violation of Nicaragua's treaty obligation to Salvador and of the joint ownership of the gulf.

PNEUMONIA IS HELD IN CHECK

Doctors Say There Are No More Cases This Month Than in Previous Years.

Pneumonia, its various methods of treatment and the number of cases at the present time, were discussed at the regular meeting of the Young Medical Society Club held last evening at the Smith House.

Dr. D. D. Brooks was host and all members but one were present. Dr. Brooks read an instructive paper on "Pneumonia," after which the other physicians present entered fully into the general discussion of the subject.

The impression of the doctors was that the number of cases under their treatment was no greater than March of the previous years. As a general rule pneumonia is more prevalent in March, especially among older persons, than of any other month of the year.

Prior to the scientific meeting, supper was served in the dining room of the hotel. Guests of the club were Dr. W. J. Churchill and Dr. J. L. Junk.

Other foodstuffs remain at practically stationary prices, though sugar has jumped again to 11 cents a pound. Onions have only dropped to 13 cents a pound in most stores, though several wholesalers are selling the fragrant vegetables for six cents a pound.

GATES GUILTY IN SECOND DEGREE

Court Sentences Him to From Four to Seven Years in Western Penitentiary.

UNIONTOWN, March 9.—By agreement of counsel, a verdict was taken in criminal court today finding that August Gates is guilty of second degree murder for the killing of Andy Namat, 40 years old, in a Hungarian restaurant in Morgantown street, Uniontown, on last December 18. A special venire of 50 Connellsville men had been summoned for the selection of a jury, and shortly after these men had taken their seats in court it was announced to them by Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen that they would not be needed and were excused.

Judge Van Swearingen directed that nine additional jurors to the three selected yesterday be called to the box, and it was explained to them by the court that a defendant cannot plead guilty to a charge of second degree murder, and that it would be necessary to take a verdict. The 12 men in the box were sworn, and a verdict taken immediately.

After the verdict had been taken, the taking of testimony in the case was begun by Judge Van Swearingen. This testimony was taken for the information of the court before the position of sentence. Gates was sentenced to serve an indeterminate sentence of from four to seven years in the penitentiary.

Coroner S. H. Baum was the first witness called by District Attorney S. John Morrow. He told of the autopsy and inquest made into the death of Andy Namat, who was a porter in the restaurant of Mike Kovach at 15 Morgantown street. The back part of Namat's skull was crushed practically from ear to ear, he said, four (4) on the left side of his chest were crushed and there were numerous cuts and bruises over his head and face.

Gates told his story to the court before he was sentenced. He said that he was robbed of $14 in the Hungarian restaurant on Morgantown street, where the killing occurred. He awoke to see Namat going through his clothes and in the fight that followed, he said, Namat was killed. He admitted beating Namat over the head with the heel of his shoe but claimed that the hole in the back of Namat's head was caused by his fall to the floor.

SCOTSDALE MINISTERS WILL DECLINE TO OFFICIATE AT FUNERALS HELD ON SUNDAY

The Ministerial Association of Scottdale has adopted resolutions stating that members will not officiate at funerals on Sunday except under extreme conditions or circumstances respecting contagious diseases that would render a Sunday service unavoidable.

The ministers give as their reason for the action that Sunday funerals are to a large measure unnecessary and deprive a great many men of a day of rest.

Funeral directors, casketmen and caretakers of the cemeteries are required to work unnecessarily, the ministers contend. These men like to enjoy Sunday as a day of rest and religious worship just as much as anybody, they declare, and it is not fair to require them to serve at funerals on Sunday when it is not absolutely necessary.

Sunday funerals also cause greater expense to those who have to bear them, the ministers declare.

The ministers are also considering a resolution asking church people to refrain from making social engagements on Wednesday nights so that they may attend prayer meetings.

CLOTURE PASSES

Unlimited Debate No Longer Possible in Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—After more than 100 years under rules permitting debate limited only by the physical endurance of senators and the provisions of the Constitution the Senate last night by a vote of 76 to 3 put power in the hands of two-thirds of its members in the future to limit discussion and to say when a vote shall be taken on a pending measure.

Never, while the amendment is in the Senate rule book can a "little group of wilful men," as President Wilson called these he held responsible for defeat of the armed neutrality bill, prevent a vote upon a bill before the Senate two-thirds of their colleagues will otherwise. The organized filibuster as recognized in the Senate is dead.

Flags Train

Man Discovers Broken Rail Just in Time to Halt Express.

William Mahoney, 25 years old, last night dangled the Baltimore & Ohio express northward bound, due in Uniontown at 6:25, bringing it to a stop just above Barton's crossing in time to avoid almost certain disaster from a badly broken rail. Mahoney, who was going home for supper, noticed a large section missing from one of the rails close to the crossing. The express was least past due and could be heard whistling up the road. Mahoney ran to a nearby house, secured a lantern, and flagged the train.

After the rail had been examined by the engineer, it was decided that by running very slowly over it, it would be possible to bring the train into Uniontown without accident. Later trains were warned and they went over the weak place slowly, avoiding accident.

Mahoney had his right leg cut off beneath a Baltimore & Ohio train, Halloween night, 1915.

SCOTSDALE WILL PUT NEW TRAFFIC LAWS INTO EFFECT

Ordinance Conforms With State Laws So Motorists May Know What to Expect.

REPLY TO MT. PLEASANT

Connell Says Local Firemen Never Expected Any Recompense for Assisting at Fires in Mount Pleasant; Won't Go Again Unless Chief Calls.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, March 9.—At a special meeting of council on Wednesday evening an ordinance was passed regulating the traffic of the town. This is almost uniform with the state law and is like those being passed by nearly all boroughs so that automobile owners traveling through the state will know just exactly what to expect in every town.

A resolution was adopted making the borough paydays the 15th and last days of each month.

In answer to the action taken by the Mount Pleasant council after Scottdale had gone to their aid on January 21 a resolution was passed to the effect that "the Scottdale council has noted the action of the Mount Pleasant council at their meeting of February 5, relative to their call to the Scottdale Volunteer Fire department for assistance at their fire January 21. In regard to recompense for such response no such thought ever entered the minds of the members of the Scottdale borough council or the firemen. They shall now understand that the services of the Scottdale Volunteer Fire department are not required unless called upon by the chief of the Mount Pleasant department."

DOCTORS SAY COLDS ARE CONTAGIOUS

Specialists Declare Germs of Common Colds Scattered by Sufferers are Real Danger.

Doctors have recently declared positively that our common colds are really just as "contagious" as pneumonia or scarlet fever and that sufferers from colds should be isolated as carefully as victims of the latter diseases. They say that in sneezing the victim of a cold scatters millions of germs into the air which all of us breathe and when these germs lodge in the nose or throat of anyone who is weakened or run down they find another victim and another cold is started. It is important, therefore, to keep yourself built up by using Father John's Medicine which is a pure and wholesome body builder, and you will be able to ward off this danger because the cold germs cannot live in the nose or throat of a person in normal health. Remember too that Father John's Medicine treats colds and throat troubles without the use of alcohol or dangerous drugs so it is a safe family medicine, fine for the children as well as older folks.—Adv.

LITTLE LILLIAN ROMAINE FISHER CAN TALK AGAIN

This attractive little lady is the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Fisher, 233 North St., Harrisburg, Pa. Last winter she had an attack of measles, together with a very severe cold. Just at that time Dr. S. J. Wilhelm presented Mr. Fisher with a jar of the Southern "outdoor" treatment—Vicks VapoRub Salve, which was just then being introduced in Harrisburg, and requested that he give this preparation a thorough trial. Mr. Fisher writes:—

"I must say that our baby had such a cold on her chest and in her throat that she could hardly talk, and we could not get her to take anything internally. After we used Vicks VapoRub Salve on her breast and throat at night before going to bed she was entirely relieved. No family should be without this preparation. It is externally applied, and so can be used freely—is absorbed through and penetrates the skin, and, in addition, is inhaled as a vapor. It has a hundred uses for the many minor ailments for which every mother is the doctor. Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Time Recipe That Anybody Can Apply.

The use of sage and sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

By brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known down-town druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

MT. BRADDOCK TONIGHT

Cokers Will Play Against the Baltimore & Ohio Fire.

The Baltimore & Ohio basketball team plays the Mount Braddock aggregation at the Maccabee hall this evening. The Mount Braddock has not been seen here for several weeks and is probably strengthened up by this time. A large rooting body from the coke town is expected.

The preliminary game between the Lady Maccabees and the Overholt girls will be played at 7:45 sharp. The Maccabee team is out after Broad Ford pepper and the Overholt girls are after the victory just as hard, as they wish to go up against the South Connelville girls at Scottdale next Thursday with a clean slate.

Arrangement for the game at Scottdale are completed. Ellsworth hall has been secured for Thursday evening and only the two ladies games will be the attraction. The preliminary game will be played between the Lady Maccabees and the Ioanians.

Tells How to Take Soreness From a Corn and Lift It Right Out.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn you invite lock-jaw or blood poison, which is needless, says a Chiconail authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a drug called trocena can be obtained at little cost from the drug store but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You simply apply a few drops of this on a tender, aching corn and the soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain!

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is claimed to just shrivel up any corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. If your wife wears high heels, she will be glad to know of this.—Adv.

will at last be staged. In order that the teams can have an even chance to win, the Ellsworth hall at Scottdale will be used. The door is regulation size.

The Maccabees expect to have a stronger lineup than has yet played in the game later in the season. Bishop and Struble will both be on the team.

"Call old Pancho," the general directed. "Tell him to bring me black Felipe, the fellow with the torn lip. Quick!"

"Yes, general," came the voice; then the metallic rattle of spurs and accoutrements as the sentry trotted away.

Dolores had completely broken down now, and Alaire was trying to comfort her. Their guest remained by the window, frowning. After a time there sounded a murmur of voices, then a shuffling of feet in the hall; Alaire's friend, the old lieutenant, appeared in the doorway, saluting. Behind him were several others.

"Here is Felipe," he announced. "Bring him in."

A sudden, frowning man in a soldier's uniform was pushed forward, and Dolores hid her face against her mistress's shoulder.

"Is this the fellow?" Longorio inquired.

Dolores nodded.

"Well, what have you to say for yourself?" The general transcribed his trooper with a stare, then, as the latter seemed bereft of his voice, "Why didn't you enter this house?"

Felipe moistened his scuffed lips. "That woman has rings of gold. She's not so old either, when you come to look at her." He glanced at his comrades, who had crowded in behind old Pancho.

"Well, What Have You to Say for Yourself?"

"So? Let us go outside and learn more about this." Longorio waved his men before him, and followed them out of the room and down the hall and into the night.

When a moment or two had dragged past, Dolores quivered. "What are they going to do with him?"

"I don't know. Anyhow, you need not fear."

There sounded the report of a gunshot, deadened indeed by the thick adobe walls of the house, yet sudden and loud enough to startle the women.

When Longorio reappeared, he found Alaire standing stiff and white against the wall, with Dolores kneeling, her face still buried in her mistress's gown.

"Give yourself no concern," he told them, quickly. "I beg a thousand pardons for Felipe. He's a good fellow, but he will molest you."

"Was that a shot?" Alaire inquired faintly.

"Yes. It is all settled."

"You killed him?"

The general nodded. "Purely for the sake of discipline, one has to be seen. Now your women are badly frightened. Send her away so that we may reach an understanding."

"Oh—! This is frightful!" Alaire gasped. "I can't talk to you. Go—let me go."

The man pondered for an instant. "Perhaps that would be better," he agreed reluctantly. "For I see you too, are unsteady. Very well. My action will have to wait. Take a few hours to think over what I have told you. When you have slept you will feel differently about me. You will meet me with a smile, eh?" He beamed hopefully.

"Sleep? You expect me to sleep?"

"Please," he begged. "Beauty is like a delicate flower, and sleep is the dew that freshens it. Believe me, you can rest in all security, for no one can come or go without my consent. You are cruel to postpone my delight; nevertheless, I yield to your feelings. But star of my life I shall dream of you, and of that little priest who waits with the key to Paradise in his hands."

He bowed over Alaire's cold fingers, then stood erect until she and Dolores had gone.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Priest From Monclova.

That was a night of terror for the women. Although Longorio's discipline was in some ways strict, in others it was extremely lax. From some quarters his men had secured a supply of mescal, and, forgetful of Felipe's unhappy fate they rendered the hours hideous. There were singing and quarrelling, and a shot or two sounded from the direction of the outbuildings. Morning found both Alaire and Dolores wildly overwrought. But they felt some relief upon learning that the general had been unexpectedly summoned from his bed at daylight, and had ridden to the telegraph office.

Profiting by his absence Alaire ventured from her room, racking her brain to devise some means of escape. But soldiers were everywhere; they loitered around the servants' quarters, they dozed in the shade of the ranch buildings, recovering from the night's debauch and an armed sentinel who paced the hacienda road gave evidence that, despite their apparent carelessness, they had by no means relaxed their vigilance. A round of the premises convinced Alaire that the place was actually guarded, and showed her the futility of trying to slip away. She realized, too, that even if she managed to do so, her plight would be little better. For how could she hope to cover the hundred miles between La Teria and the Rio Grande when every man was an enemy?

She was standing in one of the open, sashless windows when her former protector, the old lieutenant, came her good morning and paused to smoke a cigarette.

"Well, it was a great night, wasn't it?" he began. "And we have great news this morning. We are going to fight you gingers."

"I hope not."

"Yes, it will probably go hard with you. Tell me, this city of Washington is a fine city and very rich, is it not?"

"Oh, yes."

"It's full of loot, eh? Especially the president's palace? That is good. One can never believe all one hears."

"Why do you ask?" Alaire was curious.

"I was thinking it would pay us to go there. If your soldiers march upon Mexico City it would be a brilliant piece of strategy for General Longorio to invade the United States, would it not?"

"It would be funny to capture Washington and hold your president for ransom, eh?"

"Very funny," Alaire agreed dryly. "How could you go about it?"

Pancho shrugged. "That is the trouble. We would have to march around Texas, I presume."

"Around Texas?"

"Yes. You see, Texas is a bad country; it is full of—barbarians who know how to fight. If it were not for Texas we would have the United States at our mercy."

After some consideration he ventured this opinion: "We could afford to pay the Texans for allowing us to ride through their country, provided we stole nothing and paid for the cattle we ate. Well, Longorio is a great one for schemes, he is talking over the telegraph with somebody at his moment. Perhaps it is the president of Texas."

"You are a poor man, are you not?" Alaire inquired.

"Miserably poor."

"Would you like to make a great deal of money?"

"Dios! That is why I'm a soldier."

"I will pay you well to get me two horses."

But old Pancho shook his head vigorously. "Impossible! General Longorio is going to marry you. We all got drunk last night to celebrate the wedding. Yes, and the priest is waiting."

"I will make you rich."

"Hoi! I wouldn't live to spend a single peso. Felipe disobeyed orders, and he general shot him before he could cross himself. Boom! The poor fellow was passed in a minute. No, I will all be rich after we win a few battles and capture some American cities. I am an old man, I shall leave the drinking and the women to the young fellows, and prepare for my old age."

Seeing that she could not coax Pancho's aid, Alaire begged him to fetch the priest.

"You wish spiritual comfort, so now?"

"Perhaps."

"Well, he doesn't look like much of a priest, but probably he will do. As for me, I don't believe in such things. Churches are all very well for ignorant people, but we Mexicans are too intelligent, we are making an end of them."

The priest was a small, white-haired man with a gentle almost timid face, and at the moment when he appeared before Alaire he was in anything but a happy frame of mind. He had undergone, he told her, a terrible experience. His name was O'Malley. He had come from Monclova, whence the rebels had banished him under threat of death. He had seen his church despoiled of its valuables, his school closed, his himself had managed to escape only by a miracle. During his flight toward the border he had suffered every indignity and finally Longorio had intercepted him and brought him here, practically in chains.

"What a situation! What chaos!" he lamented. "The land is overrun with bandits; there is no law, no authority, no faith, religion is made a mockery. The men are becoming infidels and atheists and in many places they will not allow us to give comfort even to their women."

"Is it as bad as that?"

Father O'Malley shook his head and said: "You've no idea. What do you think of a people who forbid the mention of God's name in their schools? That is what the revolutionists are doing. Caudelera claims that the churches are the property of the state. He confiscates them, and he charges admission! He has banished all except a few of us priests, and has shamelessly persecuted our Sisters of Mercy. Oh the outrages! Mexico is today, the blackest spot on the map of Christendom!" His voice broke. "That is the freedom the liberty the democracy, for which they are fighting. That is the new Mexico. And the federals are not a bit better. This Longorio, for instance this—wolf—he brings me here, as his prisoner, to solemnize an unholy marriage! He treats me like a dog. Last night I slept in a filthy hovel."

"Oh! I'm sorry," Alaire exclaimed. "But I'm half crazed with my own troubles. You must come into the house, the best I have is yours. You shall be as much my guest as I can make you, and—perhaps you will help me to escape."

"Escape?" The little man smiled mournfully. "You are watched and guarded and so am I. Even if you got away from here, what then? You can't imagine the condition of the country."

"I won't marry him!" Alaire cried with a shudder. "I won't!"

"He can't very well force you to do so. But remember these are war times, the man is a fiend and he puts no restraint upon his desires. If he is madly bent on having you, how can you prevent it? In normal times he would not dare injure one so prominent as you but now—"

Father O'Malley lifted up his hands. "I only wonder that he suggests a lawful marriage. Suppose you refuse? Will he not sacrifice you to his passions? He has done worse things. After a moment's hesitation he said: 'Of course, it is possible that I misjudge him. Anyhow, if you desire me to do so, I will refuse to perform the ceremony. But—I'm afraid it will just mean ruin for both of us.'"

"Surely he wouldn't harm you?"

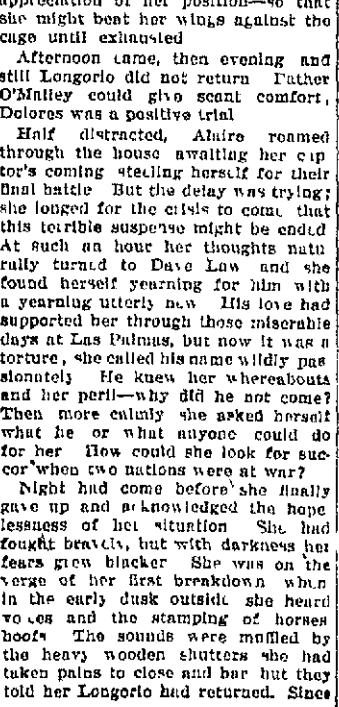

The father shrugged. "What am I? An obscure priest. Many of my brothers are buried in Mexico. However, I shall do as you wish."

As the day wore on Alaire realized even more clearly the fact that she was Longorio's prisoner. His men in spite of their recent debauch, kept very good watch over her, and it was plain that they would obey his orders no matter how extreme. It occurred to her finally that he was staying away purposely in order to give her a fuller appreciation of her position—so that she might better hate him against the time when he should return.

Afternoon came, then evening, and still Longorio did not return. Father O'Malley could give scant comfort, Dolores was a positive trial.

Half distracted, Alaire roamed through the house awaiting her captor's coming, stealing herself for their final battle. But the delay was trying; she longed for the crisis to come, that this terrible suspense might be ended. At such an hour her thoughts naturally turned to Dave Law, and she found herself yearning for him with a yearning utterly new. His love had supported her through those miserable days at Las Palmas, but now it was a torture, she called his name wildly and silently. He knew her whereabouts and her peril—why did he not come? Then more calmly she asked herself what he or what anyone could do for her. How could she look for succor when two nations were at war?

Night had come before she finally gave up and acknowledged the hopelessness of her situation. She had fought bravely, but with darkness her fears grew blacker. She was on the verge of her first breakdown when in the early dusk outside she heard voices and the stamping of horses' hoofs. The sounds were muffled by the heavy wooden shutters who had taken pains to close and bar but they told her Longorio had returned. Since

She heard Dave's voice faintly.

It was futile to deny him entrance she waited where she was. Old Pancho's voice sounded outside then there came a knock upon the door of the room in which she stood.

PUT MORE PEP INTO BALL GAMES

Seek to Minimize Advantages of Pitcher Over Batter.

ELIMINATE THE SPITBALL

Charley Herzog Suggests Widening of Foul Strike Zone—Widen the Home
Plate, Says President Toner, Who Was Once a Pitcher.

The good old game of baseball as it has been played for a number of years satisfies the public as a rule. Outside of the war-time stuff and the squabbles between the players and the "big" magnates, the fans are willing to let well enough alone.

But some of the higher ups in the baseball biz have come out with the opinion that changes should be made in the rules which will enliven the pastime. And they probably know best.

Ways and means to put more pep into a game of ball have been advanced from many sources during the winter, and they include everything from the elimination of the good old spitball to the enlarging of the home plate.

Governor John K. Tener, who was once a pitcher of no mean ability, admits now what he would not have admitted when he was trying to get the hitters out. He says that the pitcher has too great an advantage under the rules that now prevail.

The governor says that in his opinion this advantage can be offset by widening the home plate one inch and cutting down the number of balls which will entitle a player to his base from four to three. Mr. Tener argues that the slightly larger plate will give the pitcher greater confidence in their ability to get the ball over the corner, and the reduction in the number of balls will entice the ambitious batter to swing oftener at the ball. As long as he knows the pitcher will be trying to get the apple over the pan the batter will do less waiting at the plate, and the result will be more hitting.

If you'll think back to the days of the Federal League you will no doubt remember that the powers of organized ball scoffed at the idea of the Feds in putting a livelier ball into play. They attributed the fact that many of the Fed batters piled up big averages to the very lively ball they used. They also said the pitchers were far below the par of the major leagues. All these arguments were well and good. But now comes John McGraw with the expression that a livelier ball is the thing needed to pep up the pastime in the majors today.

Charley Herzog says that a foul strike zone, which he would extend from the home plate to first and third bases, respectively, and in which a ball hit by the batsman would not count as a first or second strike, would solve the problem. The batter often hits foul line drives just outside of first and third bases, which, of course, count against him as strikes if he is not already in a hole. But without such strikes counted the batter would naturally be encouraged to swing harder and oftener. Herzog's suggestion looks plausible enough, and it certainly favors the batsman.

Every fan of the Braves would put the danger on the spitball and also shorten the distance to first base, thereby giving the batsman a greater chance against the pitcher and also the wings of the various sluggers, who often throw him out by one step.

All of these suggestions could be put into use. As the old saying goes, they can be tried out, and baseball can afford to try most anything once.

No doubt there will be some lengthy discussions at the meeting of the joint rules committee, and if some of the higher ups in the game have their way changes will be made.

"Give the public the fastest article of ball you can invent," says Governor Tener, "and the public will show its appreciation by attending the games in greater numbers."

TO STIMULATE FLY CASTING.

Angling Enthusiasts Plan Tourney Between Coast Cities.

Fly casting enthusiasts on the Pacific coast are likely to see their sport much stimulated if the efforts of W. F. Buck, an official of the Alhambra Anglers' club of Portland, and Paul W. Kinnick of San Francisco are successful.

It is the purpose of these two men and their associates to form an organization of Pacific coast fly casting clubs which will include members at all important points up and down the coast. The plan is to hold tournaments between clubs at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and possibly San Diego.

Clubs in these cities are too far from the east to enter into general competition with the eastern clubs or to enter the national tournament held each year, but with such an organization on the coast this, in addition to the northwestern tournament, which was held in Portland last year, will tend to make more competition and bring the coast anglers closer together, according to the ideas of the promoters of the scheme.

Cleveland Manager Hopes to Make

Heart of Chicago Football Star.

Paul Des Jardien, the former University of Chicago football star, has football fans eager for him to make good on the Cleveland ball club in 1917. Lee Fohl, manager of the Clevelanders, is a follower of the fall college sport and was deeply interested in the playing of Des Jardien.

"He is the best football player I ever saw," Fohl said. "He not only passes the ball, but gets down on the punts about as fast as the ends, and he is a deadly tackler. If I can develop him into half as good a pitcher as he is a football player I'll have one of the star twirlers in the league."

POWER OF THE GYROSCOPE.

Widespread Use of What Was at First Regarded as a Mere Toy.

Tinkering in his machine shop to design a novel Christmas present for one of his boys, Elmer A. Sperry a few years back stumbled on to a half dozen new applications of what had previously been regarded as a merely interesting mechanical curiosity, the gyroscope.

Now his inventions will keep a ship from rocking and the passengers from seasickness, an airplane from air pockets and furnish the only true compass that the mariner, guide or air pilot knows. Making the gun deck of a battleship as steady as a gun mount as may be had on land, the gyroscope eventually will double the efficiency of the navy, it is said. Anything that needs stability, excluding possible Central American governments and street cars, needs a gyroscope. Mr. Sperry told a Detroit audience.

The use of submarines and airplanes has been made possible largely through the gyroscope. Before the stabilizers were put aboard the submarines, because of their cigar-like shape, rolled so frequently that no man could live in them. With one of the little "tops" aboard the Deutschland can ride as evenly as a unimpaired liner on a smooth sea. The principal advantage to airplanes has been in the gyroscope compass, which possesses the advantage of always pointing north. An ordinary magnetic compass in practical use under stress points anywhere from northwest to northeast—and sometimes southeast.—Detroit News.

NAMING A CITY.

How It Came About That Sedalia Was Not Called Sedville.

"The city of Sedalia was both founded and named by General George B. Smith, who was a distinguished citizen of Missouri. His war was a Virginia by birth and a Kentuckian by upbringing. As a young man he came to Missouri and settled at Georgetown, which is three miles north of the present city of Sedalia. He was prominent both in politics and business and was instrumental in the building of the Missouri Pacific railway from St. Louis to Kansas City during the fifties of the last century.

He could not induce his fellow townsmen to make the necessary effort to have the railway pass through Georgetown, and, believing that that would condemn the village to decay, he bought a large tract of land beside the railway tracks and laid out a town site there, from which, in course of time, has grown the flourishing city of Sedalia.

When it came to furnishing a name for the new settlement General Smith determined to christen it Sedville, in honor of his younger daughter Sarah, whose pet name in the family circle was "Sed." One of his friends, Josiah Dent, of St. Louis, suggested that "village" was a commonplace termination and that Sedalia would be a more beautiful and unusual name. General Smith approved of the suggestion, and Sedalia came officially into being when he and his family, the first inhabitants of the new town, moved thither in 1850.—Youth's Companion.

An interesting illusion. A curious and interesting effect may be produced in the following simple manner: Take a sheet of paper or thin cardboard about five inches square and roll it into a tube, with one end just large enough to fit around the eye and the other end somewhat smaller. Hold the tube between the thumb and first finger of the right hand—do not grasp the tube with the whole hand—and place the larger end of the tube close against the right eye. With the left hand place a book against the side of the tube. If both eyes are now kept open there will appear to be a hole through the book, and it will appear that objects are seen through this hole and not through the tube. The effect is even more odd if the left hand instead of a book is held against the tube, when the hole will appear through the center of the hand.

THE SMART CHICKEN.

Once on a time there was a nice family of chickens living in a nice chicken yard in a charming town, and the chickens belonged to a dear little girl named Milly.

Milly was very fond of the chickens. She had given all of them nice names. I can't remember all the names, but there were Floosie and Fluffie and Tipple and Toppie and many others.

One of the others was Smokie. He was given that name because he looked so much like the gray smoke that came out of the kitchen chimney.

Smokie was really quite a pretty little chicken, and Milly gave him a great deal of petting. Perhaps that turned his head. He became a very vain little chicken. If Milly came out to the chicken yard and did not notice him he was much displeased.

So to make sure she would notice him Smokie, when his little wings would bear him, hopped up on the roof of one of the outhouses. When that didn't attract Milly's attention Smokie would flutter up on the fence. "You'd best be careful," Mother Hen said, for Smokie had a reckless way of dithering down from his perch.

Smokie tossed his little head. He thought he was quite able to take care of himself.

One day Milly came out to the chicken yard with a big pan of yellow looking stuff. She set it down on the ground and called the chicks to her.

Smokie must have been taking a nap on the fence, for he hadn't noticed her come in.

When she called: "Chick, chick, chick! Come, chick, chick, chick!" he turned and almost tumbled off the fence. Then he made a dive and landed right in the midst of the pan of yellow stuff.

It was cornmeal mush, which Milly had brought out nice and warm. Smokie landed right in the middle of it, and the more he tried to get out the more trouble he had, for it was very sticky.

Milly picked him out with a mush in his wings and in his feathers.

"Oh, dear! Now you'll have to have a bath!" cried Milly. So she took him into the house and washed him in warm water, and Smokie felt so queer and had to sit in the basket by the fire until he was dry. The next time Smokie will watch where he jumps.

STYLES FOR CHILDREN.

What Small People Will Wear This Springtime.

The inclination just now is toward the simplest lines, and bloomers are included, as a matter of course, in frocks; not only for the littlest girl, but for her elder sister, who may be almost in her teens.

Chunbray, Scotch ghinghams, linens, and lawns are the favorite fabrics. Sometimes there is a yoke, to which the material is gathered and held in position by rows of smocking in colored threads. It has taken some time for this form of decoration to become popular in this country. For many years it has been a favorite means of ornamentation in England and, to a less extent, in France.

The type of smock that fastens on either shoulder and is slipped over the head is shown for both little boys and girls. In the garment for the former the smock is cut much shorter than when it is for the girl, and the bloomers are not as full as those worn by the latter.

While white remains the only thing considered in connection with the clothes of infants, color has crept into the little dresses, coats and hats of children who have entered their second or third year. Even the standard pale blue and pale pink now have rivals in such shades as mauve, old blue and rose. Now and then one meets a light green color or a pale lavender, but on the whole these have not a very large representation in juvenile clothes.

The dress intended for beach wear continues to be made of serge in white, in navy and quite recently in shades of red. The trimming is simple and employs soutache braiding, machine stitching and embroidery motifs. Sometimes there is no trimming other than the belt and the collars and cuffs of some washable serge.

The matter of long waist or short waist is one that the mother may decide for her child, according to the former's preference. The very little girls wear yoke dresses, but those who have attained as many as five years or more wear long waisted frocks with a belt. On the whole, perhaps those are preferred, excepting for the party frock, which has a short waist, very dainty skirt and a sash.

Of course there must be a party frock in every little girl's wardrobe. They are made of the finest fabrics, exquisitely sheer and trimmed with fine laces and embroideries. The effort is to keep away from too much ornamentation. Ribbons are permissible in dainty colors, and usually they are in very narrow widths and manipulated in rosette or chou effect.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys
and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant, effective, uric-acid-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

CONSUMERS REALIZING THAT COKE WILL BE SCARCE ALL YEAR

Feeling Evidenced by More Inquiries for the Second Half.

FOUNDRY BECOMES ACTIVE

Considerable Movement as Prices Rise by Stages From $9.50 to the Old Figure of $9.50. No Definite Developments in Furnace For Last Half.

Special to The Weekly Courier. PITTSBURGH, March 7.—Sunday's big snowfall, easily the heaviest of the season, has not interrupted traffic as much as was expected, its conditions are already improved. There were fairly good car supplies Monday, though on the whole not as good as on the previous Monday. Yesterday brought about a 50 per cent supply and today's is hardly as good. Monday morning there was a flurry in the spot furnace coke market and as high as $12.50 is reported to have been paid, but yesterday and today the maximum has been $11.50 with time coke offered at less. Spot foundry is unchanged from a week ago, though on Saturday as high as $13 was again paid.

There has been a decided change in the attitude of coke consumers as to supplies in the second half of the year. The feeling that coke is going to be very scarce all year has spread and the evidence is found in there being much more inquiry. The same feeling obtains in the coal market, there being a heavy inquiry from consumers who would willingly pay over $3.00 for Pittsburgh district coal for the twelve months beginning April 1, when a few weeks ago there was little interest in coal at that figure.

There has been a short and sharp movement in foundry coke for the second half of this year, quite unexpected since the time coke has been so plentifully early for such business. Usually it is put through in June while last year the first movement occurred about the middle of April. Upon the first important inquiry one or two producers of foundry coke made a price of $6.50 for the second half, soon advancing to $7.00 when they found sales effected so readily. At $7.00 there was a larger movement, resulting in the withdrawal of that price by all who were making it. There were two or three regular sellers, while one or two other producers closed contracts with regular customers when they saw that otherwise they would lose them. Some prominent producers refused to sell at all, despite the insistent inquiry. The lowest quotation now for second half is $7.50 and this is made by very few producers, while the old figure of $9.50 for first half seems to stand. A few blast furnace interests have been sounding the market for furnace coke for second half but nothing definite has developed thus far. Some producers have been considering a quotation of $9.00 but the position is untenable as yet, seeing what has been done in the foundry grade. It is certain that $9.00, spoken of as a possible price for second half, is a figure which would accept, is now out of the question, and $7.50 seems to be a fair minimum, while as $3.50 was done some time ago for first quarter these two figures may be taken as the range, making the market on the whole quotable as follows:

Spot furnace $10.50 to $11.50
Contract furnace $10.50 to $11.50
Spot foundry $11.50 to $12.50
Contract foundry $11.50 to $12.50

The coal market, as noted, is displaying a much stronger tone for late deliveries, about with the coke market. Some late contracts have been closed without price being named, the buyer being content to have the going price written into the contract when the time comes. There is no more contract coal to be had at $3.00 and there is talk of $3.50 becoming a settling basis, for the year beginning April 1.

Since foundry pig iron began bringing above $20.00, Valley, there has been a market only for early delivery, nothing being done on second half. In the past few days a second half market has opened, initial sales being three lots aggregating over 2,000 tons, at $25.00. Valley, for second half, and reports are that $26.00 was received in one case. Basic iron remains at $29.00 for any delivery, but an advance is predicted. As basic and foundry cost about the same to produce the spread will have to be bridged eventually, and it looks as though it would be bridged by basic advancing. The market is now quotable as follows:

Basic iron $29.00 to $30.00
No. 2 foundry $25.00 to $26.00
Malleable $25.00 to $26.00

These prices are f. o. b. Valley furnaces, prices delivered Pittsburgh being higher by the 95 cents freight.

Average prices of spot coke have been as follows:

	Furnace	Foundry
January	$9.14	$10.53
February	10.57	12.10

W. F. Snyder & Company announce their computations of average prices paid in February at $30.00. Valley, for basic pig iron, unchanged from January, and $35.418, Valley, for Bessemer, against $35.00 in January. Foundry iron for second half has been nominally $30.00 for both months, the same as basic iron, prompt bringing more.

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

The passing out of the car supply at the end of last week prevented the coke trade from making further progress toward the recovery which made no noticeable beginning the preceding week. Due to this cause shipments fell to 44,000 tons, a loss of 10,000 tons for the week. Production more than kept pace with a total of 54,000 tons, the excess over shipments representing further additions to the stock pile, chiefly on the yards of furnace oven plants.

Although the present week including yesterday has shown a car supply average of about 80%, an acute situation has developed for today's loading, the region being practically without cars. A feeling has developed among consumers that coke is going to be scarce all year, and inquiries for the second half are coming out freely. Foundry coke has had a sharp movement, very much in advance of the contracting season for second half. Prices rose by stages from $4.50 to $7.50 at which few offerings are available, hence the old figure of $9.50 seems to stand. A few furnaces are making inquiries for second half but no developments have been made. The minimum price in held at $7.50, with $8.50 as the present maximum.

STEEL PRICES ADVANCED

MIL Bookings Largely of a Routine Character; Disposition to Cover Requirements to End of Year.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, Mar. 7.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

All the regular wire products, as well as standard steel pipe, line pipe and all country goods, were advanced Monday by $1 a ton. On the same day refined iron bars at Pittsburgh were advanced $5 a ton and chain was advanced $10 a ton.

The advances that have occurred in steel products since the German peace proposal of December 12th can no longer be regarded as sporadic or exceptional. There has been enough of them to affect the general average of steel products, whereby an exact comparison shows that since December 12th the advance in the average price of all steel products has proceeded at a rate one-fourth greater than the average advance from January 1, 1915, when the market started upwards.

December 12th inst. There is a prediction that bars, plates and shapes will be advanced within a few days. Steel mill bookings are largely of routine character, by way of covering regular customers for additional periods as the time passes. The automobile and agricultural implement trade has been largely covered on steel bars for the second half of this year but it appears that the bulk of their sheets is still to be bought.

While new projects arising involving the consumption of steel are important, there is decidedly more demand on the part of buyers to cover regular requirements to the end of the year, and there has arisen a strong disposition on the part of coal and coke consumers to secure contracts from producers. There has been quite a movement in second half foundry coke while there is more inquiry for coal for the year beginning April 1st than operators are willing to quote upon. The widespread disposition to cover is usually attributed to the prospect of war—perhaps through the referendum first proposed by the pacifists.

Last Sunday the greatest snowfall of the season occurred in the central west, being heaviest at Pittsburgh, but its effect upon the railroads is already decreasing and within a few days transportation conditions are likely to be better than for three months, though complete relief may not come even with summer.

VESSEL CONSTRUCTION.

Tonnage Now Building or Under Contract Largest in History of U. S.

The February 1st tonnage was larger than has ever before been under construction in American shipyards at any one time.
